Doctor Accompany Mr. Bevin To Colombo

London, Dec. 6 .- The Bri-Ernest Bevin, who has a bad heart and high blood pressure, will take a doctor with him to Ceylon this month for a conference of British Commonwealth Foreign Ministers.

Informed sources said his personal physician, Sir Alexander McCall, will go with him because the long land-nir-sea trip is expected to tax Mr Bevin's strength. The Foreign Secretary is 68.

She holds his American Consulate staff presumably ended today their long isolation in Communist held Mukden, Manchuria. After more than a year under the guns of guards, Mr Ward notified the State Department that his group of 20 was leaving by special train at 3.45 a.m. Mukden time on Wednesday for Tientsin.

That information, relayed from Peiping, was expected to be the last until the Ward party's arrival at Tientein two to four days hence. Mr Ward's only means of outside communication has been by telephone to the Consul-General Mr O. Edmund Clubb, at Peiping.

DR TSIANG'S PLEA TO COMMITTEE

Lake success. Dec. 6.—The United Nations Main Political Committee today recommended that Nationalist China's dispute with Russia be sent to the interim committee which meets between Assembly sessions for continuous study and report to the next session of the full Assembly.

The vote was 23-19, with 14 abstentions. Russia and her four Cominform partners voted against the measure. Yugoslavia abstained. The vote was regarded as a diplomatic victory for Nationalist China because it keeps its case alive before the United Nations.

Observers regarded it as a setback for the United States. The U.S. Ambassador-at-large, Dr Philip Jessup, State Department expert on the Far East. had opposed the move to cend the Chinese issue to the "Little Assembly."

whether it be a squatter's hut, or a mansion, is in these days, difficult and expensive to replace. The fire, incidentally, brings to renewed notice the overcrowdedness and the economic ill-balance of the Colony today. That approximately 5,000 people (not to mention animals) have to reside in some one thousand constructions which cannot be described as anything more than huts is testimony to the wretched and dangerous conditions under which so many people here today have to live. The congregating of such large numbers in a relatively small area, huddled together in wooden shacks, presents not only exceptional fire risks, but acute health dangers; such a district as Cheungshawan could easily become a breeding ground for rables. Squatters represent no new problem to Hongkong: on the contrary they represent a feature -of local life which has long received the close attention of the Authorities, and it is a subject which has been tackled with more vigeur and intelligence since the war than before. The inescapable truth, however, is that no matter how skilfully fire at Cheungshawan on Monday was so a hazard, and that the fire risk is doubled small: nevertheless, destruction of in cold weather when not only cooking property and personal effects was heavy fires, but fires for warmth are lit in flimsy and much individual misery caused among huts. All this is true, but it was even thousands of poorer residents. For them more emphasised in pre-war days when will be felt genuine sympathy, for Home, there was far less supervision and control of squatters' areas than now. Mr Gorman seems to feel that much of the problem would disappear if Government set aside an area of land for squatters which "could be adequately supervised not only by the Fire Brigade, but by the Police, Health and Sanitation officials." In some degree this has already been done, but in any case it is difficult to appreciate why adequate Fire Brigade, Police, Health and Sanitation supervision cannot be just as well carried out in existing squatters' areas as with any future model site which Government might create. None of the squatter areas of today=is inaccessible, and if, Mr Gorman is conscious of the increased fire dangers due to seasonal weather, there would seem to be ample justification for increased Fire Brigade supervision and inspection to be automatically applied at this time of the year. It is unfortunate that Hongkong- has to be plagued with a squatters problem, but it has all the appearance of inevitability and has, therefore, to be accepted. Thereafter it becomes the duty of the Authorities to the Authorities handle the problem, a see that the inhabitants of those areas squatter colony in any part of Hongkong faithfully observe whatever regulations creates for itself living hazards not are deemed necessary to ensure safesuffered by inhabitants of properly builtup areas, and only the minimum of guards against hazards. MOTOR OIL

IF you could see the inside of your engine, you might get a shock . . . scraper-ring slots blocked with deposits, rings stuck, pistons scored and coated with lacquer, crankcase and gauze filters coated with sludge, and gummy deposits on the valve stems.

Can you expect any machinery not to suffer from wear, when it is fouled with such harmful waste products?

Here's an oil that constantly works to restore your engine to the clean, healthy condition in which it will give first-class performance with minimum wear.

First, the natural stability of SHELL X-100 Motor Oil's high grade mineral oil base is further increased by an anti-oxidant additive which combats the tendency to oxidise and form sludge. Secondly, it contains a detergent additive which enables it to wash away combustion carbon and gummy deposits as they are formed, thus keeping deposits at a minimum. Thirdly, the dispersive effect of the additive enables the oil to hold these solid impurities in suspension so that they are easily removed when the oil is drained away at the regular oil change.

Give your engine a clean chance in life! Drain, flush and refill with SHELL X-100 ... the oil that helps engines to resist the major causes of wear.

SHELL X-100 will mix with any mineral oil which is alread; in the sump, but to get the best and quickest results, DRAIN, FLUSH AND
